Last night the Pioneer Press released a public opinion survey conducted by Decision Resources Limited, the most respected Minnesota polling firm, showing Tom Horner has risen significantly in the polls. In the most likely fall match up between Tom Horner, Tom Emmer and Mark Dayton, the voter choice is 18% Horner, 28% Emmer and 40% Dayton. This puts Horner2010 significantly ahead of the pace we selected for ourselves when this campaign began.

The biggest news here is Tom Horner has doubled his standing in the polls since announcing his candidacy in March. The poll also shows both Emmer and Dayton as falling back or making no gain whatsoever. This should permanently dispel the reluctance of those voters who are concerned that an IP candidate can not win a statewide election. Voters are moving swiftly to Horner once they know more about him and his opposition.

The best news of the poll indicates that Tom is receiving support from a near equal number of Republicans and Democrats and this race will be decided by the independents, and Horner is winning their support with more than a 41% lead.

Thank you all for your support, hard work and dedication to making Minnesota greater.

A Governor for all Minnesotans

I'm running for governor and asking for your vote to help change a political environment that has become so polarized that gridlock is the only possible outcome. Minnesota has always been fortunate to have good candidates, and 2010 is no different.
